Okay, well, you may remember last week when we introduced you to these two lovebirds, these high school sweethearts who had actually been put in different senior care facilities because of ongoing medical conditions. Well, after two years apart, the couple was reunited again under one roof at the Watermark Senior Living Community.

But just yesterday, listen to this, Mary and Glenn Dubrucq here celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary together. Look at those love birds, the two met at Xavier University at a basketball game. All the way back in 1958. and even today they call the romance a blessing. So, to celebrate 63 years together, their senior living facility threw the couple an anniversary dinner, they had candles, flowers and a private meal just for the two of them. Look at them holding hands here. Look at their entire family, but spending two years apart after being together for so long, I can't even imagine. I know that's what they said they couldn't imagine, they said it was weird, so glad they got their special day together.
